

Obama the “Pinnacle of Hypocrisy”

AS USURPER, THE REAL PHONY

by Joseph DeMaio, ©2013

Barack Hussein Obama is not, by historical definition, a “natural born Citizen” and therefore ineligible to the presidency. He recently claimed that possible criminal activity within his various departments amounted to “phony scandals”

(Jul. 28, 2013) — Just when you thought that the deceit, venality and perfidy of the current regime could get no worse... you are proven wrong. Again.

Last week at Knox College in Illinois, the leading candidate for the picture on a newly-proposed three-dollar bill gave a speech to a group of well-regimented obots. In the course of the speech – aided and abetted, of course, by the omnipresent teleprompters, without which his eminence would be totally lost – he produced perhaps the most hypocritical and ironic claim since Richard Nixon assured the electorate that he was “... not a crook.” Not only is his eminence a crook, he is a phony. A charlatan. A three-dollar bill.

Specifically, in his prepared remarks, while pursuing his typical “tone down the rhetoric” bashing of Republicans, he crocodile-lamented the fact that Washington has “taken its eye off the ball” as a result of being subjected to an “endless parade of distractions, political posturing and...” this is a quote, “phony scandals.”

Really? REALLY? Is this guy serious? Can he not see that he is posturing on the graves of dead Americans?

For someone who has thus far pulled off the most spectacular bamboozling of the American people since 1787 with his claim that he is eligible to the presidency as a natural born citizen to then use the term “phony” is laughable. Worse: it is disgraceful. But, then again, his entire cabal of political hacks, sycophantic media prostitutes and unprincipled enablers have in the past five years elevated the garden variety disgraceful behavior we came to expect under Nixon and Clinton into a true art form.

In terms of unvarnished chutzpah, the use by his eminence of the term “phony” to deflect attention takes the cake. To describe as “phony” the clear and present scandals of Benghazi, Fast and Furious, IRS targeting, “see-no-evil” ratification of New Black Panther voter intimidation – not to mention the “who-knows-what” other defalcations still camouflaged by his appointees and shielded by a Fourth Estate that long ago forfeited any legitimate claim to objectivity – is the pinnacle of hypocrisy. If there were a Nobel Prize for that commodity, he would win it hands down. In perpetuity.

Memo to his eminence: the murder of U.S. Border Patrol Agent Brian Terry at the hands of Mexican drug cartel members – using guns that the “justice” department of your regime supplied to the murderers – is not “phony.” However, your refusal to come clean on the crime is, without a doubt, scandalous. There are more people in jail over the phantom “spontaneous video protest” manufactured in the Benghazi atrocity than over the murder of Agent Terry. Shame on you.

The targeting of conservative groups for hostile scrutiny by the IRS, while retroactively lubricating the process for leftist organizations – including the Barack H. Obama Foundation – is not “phony.” Your refusal to visit strict discipline on your IRS flacks, on the other hand, is by definition scandalous. Shame on you.

Worst of all, the September 11, 2012 deaths in Benghazi of U.S. Ambassador Christopher Stevens, along with three Americans tasked to serve and protect him – information specialist Sean Smith and former Navy Seals Glen Doherty and Tyrone Woods – is as far from “phony” as it gets. Yet, the opaque responses that you and your cast of marionettes have coughed up in the name of “the most transparent administration in history” are beyond scandalous. And when the truth comes out, if your pal Morsi’s fingerprints are on the details of the attack, they may well be criminal. You know it; your marionettes know it; and soon, everyone will know it.

As more of your minions begin waking up to the depth of the rot which now defines your regime; as more and more federal employees throughout all of the agencies of the government – Americans first, federal employees second – realize the disastrous course upon which you have set the nation; and as more and more whistleblowers and “leakers” begin exposing, like the layers of a molding onion, the putrid glue which holds your regime together... you will realize, as did Josef Goebbels: you cannot tell a lie forever.

You are as phony as a Monopoly three-dollar bill. You are ineligible to hold the office you usurp, sadly, with the assistance of judges who have forgotten – or conveniently ignored – everything they learned in law school about the best evidence rule. When Justice Thomas testified that the Supreme Court was “evading” the issue of your constitutional eligibility, he hit the nail on the head. So scratch the Supreme Court as a source of any relief. And even if the House voted for impeachment, the Senate – under the “leadership” of a man hailing from the city made famous by Bugsy Siegel – will refuse to convict, sadly, no matter what.

Accordingly... steady..., wait for it..., wait for it... you should voluntarily step down. Since seemingly no one within the Beltway has the backbone to tell you this, permit me: if there remains in your mind a single micro-gram of self-respect and love for this once-great country, you should man-up: Resign the presidency. Even the bozo living over at the Naval Observatory would be a preferable alternative to you, because at least he is not a “phony.” He is, of course, a clown; but he is a “genuine” clown. You, on the other hand, are a fake and pitiful clown. A phony from the get-go, and whether that get-go was in Honolulu, Mombasa or anywhere else.

Once you resign, the nation will begin a long healing process and you’ll feel better about yourself in the morning. As your pal Spike Lee might say: do the right thing. And as an added bonus, remember: a President Biden would have the power of pardon....
