

Of Führers and Political Pestilence

“IT IS THAT SERIOUS”

by Joseph DeMaio, ©2020

“Pelosi with Chinese Premier Wen Jiabao during a trip to China in 2009,” Wikipedia, CCA 2.0

(Mar. 23, 2020) — Well, ladies and gentlemen, boys and girls, as well as all cats and dogs reading this: our nation has moved into a new era, the “Era of the Wuhan/COVID-19 Pestilence.” Make no mistake, this epoch will be different from any other period in the history of the nation from its founding to the present.

While it is absolutely true that the spread of the viral disease must be addressed and halted in order to “flatten the curve,” it is equally true that the economic trajectory upon which the nation is now diving must also be addressed and halted. Memo to the nation: if at the end of the day, when the “spread curve” flattens, there are no businesses left, no jobs left and no farmers left..., it will not matter whether people can find bathroom tissue. Yes, it is that serious.

The best hope is that a cocktail of two anti-malaria drugs – hydroxychloroquine and azithromycin – may have a significant, perhaps even profound impact on treating persons who have either contracted the disease or who have tested “positive” for the disease. That outcome, of course, would be “just what the doctor ordered.” Time will tell.

However, one other aspect of the pandemic also needs to be addressed. It is a political pestilence. That plague is the continuing despicable – no other word comes close – manner in which the Democrats and their kissing cousins in the mainstream and mass media keep assaulting President Trump in these times of peril. If this is how World War III begins, look first to China for the cartridge; then to the Democrats for the bullet at the tip of the cartridge; then to the press and their electronic handmaidens for the trigger.

The nation will never again be the same. But the nation will recover and, over time, regain its strength. That task, however, cannot be accomplished if there any Democrats, Progressives, Liberals, Socialists or Communists occupying positions of power and influence in the Congress.

Given the deeply mendacious behavior of the Democrats, led by House Führer Pelosi, in playing politics with a pandemic and continuing to pursue her neurotic and insane obsession of destroying President Trump, your faithful servant reiterates: the Democrats persist in demonstrating that they have forever and irretrievably forfeited any claim of right or competence to govern a free people in a constitutional republic such as ours.

Accordingly, they must all be voted out of office in November 2020. No exceptions. More than at any time since 1789, the future of the Republic depends on this. I channeled the Founders this afternoon, and they all agreed.