"The Price is Right Presidency" at Ft Meyers FL

Did any of you catch Mr. O in action in Ft. Meyers FL. The guy is a real hypnotic showman on stage. And he had the crowd of O-Bots dutifully mesmerized and worshipping him and on display for the greater viewing audience and the MSM media networks. Not only did the "cult of personality" mesmerized and worshipping O-Bots elect this guy "American Idol" style, but now they are acting like they are on the "Price is Right" in town hall meetings just to get to ask him a question.

Did you see that last person picked to answer a question, the young guy with the ball cap? Obama had to ask people to sit down, then magically he found this guy jumping up and down to be recognized. It was like, "Come on down! You get to ask the President the last question". Was that real or a set up and plant in the crowd for the final question ... one that Obama's managers wanted him to get as the last question, which is generally the key one that people remember, especially if it is something the O-Bot manipulators want people to hear? That guy in the ball cap was almost speechless and breathless just to get to ask the question. Very good acting. And what a set up question it was. A perfect pitch right in the zone for Obama to hit out of the park and walk off the stage to a screaming and cheering and idolizing crowd wanting more.

This Mr. O guy is the master of "conversational hypnosis". And his handlers have him on TV every day to keep the people mesmerized by him. I have never seen an "elected" President on stage and campaigning like this ... after the campaign is over. No one is using their head with O. It's all about whatever makes one feel good now, looks good on TV, and be damned the future ramifications of what he is proposing and doing or planning for our country and our system of economics and government. It's all now, now, now, me, me, me. It is depressing to watch America becoming simple a combination of "American Idol" and "The Price is Right" in our political decision making.
